*From many schools we came,
500 strong, thirsting for what was ahead,
Aware of the great traditions of this high school,
And filled with new ideas to sustain them.*

*Ours was a time of great consequence, indeed,
And of great advancement in the world around us;
But no matter how rapidly the world progressed,
We strove on, never more than a step behind.*

*The passage from youth to adulthood often seemed long,
But we could not be deterred from our goal.
We perservered on athletic and scholastic battlegrounds,
And in the end we emerged victorious.*

*Now at last we stand, strengthened by our trials,
On the threshold of a strange new world.
So let us push on, strong and sturdy,
Imbued with the indomitable spirit of our alma mater.*

Administration

James A. Griffin
Assistant Superintendent of Schools
Villanova University, B.S., M.Ed.
Suffolk University, M.A., Ed.

The backbone of any school is its administration—that dedicated group of individuals whose responsibility it is to keep the school running under any circumstance. Each administrator is highly trained in his respective field, whether that field be guidance, discipline, athletics, or over-all supervision, and each one is under constant pressure to put out to “101%” of his ability. Lawrence High is fortunate indeed to be in the hands of a very capable and efficient administration. Their great dedication to the school is unquestionable, and their efforts to promote the welfare of the school and its students have seemed “superhuman” at times. Even in these confused and troubled times, their calm, intelligent leadership and unflagging determination continue to keep the school “sailing on a smooth course.” One cannot help respecting and admiring such a remarkable group of leaders as our administration obviously is.

English

This year we've taken the boredom out of English at Lawrence High. No matter what your literary likes and dislikes may be, you can probably find an English course suited to your exact specifications.

For those who are tired of the old familiar grammar rules and vocabulary lists, our ever-resourceful English Department has established a wide variety of new courses; courses which range in subject material from conservative poetry to controversial best-sellers. Books such as CATCH-22 and THE ANDROMEDA STRAIN have taken their place in the classroom alongside the more classical works of Shakespeare and Thomas Hardy.

This is not to say that grammar and vocabulary have been forgotten. On the contrary, they are included in every regular English class, and those who wish to concentrate more on these areas may take the new "Preparation for College Boards" course, which offers intensive drill on the verbal skills required in the SAT's.

Mathematics

Through the efforts of Department Head David Clayman, the Math Department of Lawrence High has become one of the most modern and progressive to be found anywhere on the secondary school level. In his first year on the job, Mr. Clayman supervised the construction of the Math Lab and the installation of electronic calculators. These calculators, in addition to eliminating the tedium of long computations, spurred the interest of students with an aptitude for work in electronics. Furthermore, the department head established a student-controlled tutorial program to aid those pupils having trouble in math.

This year the department took another giant step forward. To satisfy the ever-increasing desire among students to learn aspects of modern technology, the calculators were supplemented with some of the most modern computers available, and a computer programming course was initiated. The tutorial session, which had already established itself as a great success, was expanded to include an even greater number of knowledge-hungry students, an act which proved extremely worthwhile, indeed.

Business

"There's no business like our business"—that's the creed of the Lawrence High Business Department, and one look at the various classes conducted in that field will show the validity of the creed. Our business teachers take pride in the thoroughness of their courses, because they know that an individual must be well-prepared in order to "make it" in the rugged business world.

Let's face the facts. Many of today's young adults do not wish to spend four years or more in college. They would rather go right into the world of industry and high finance. This is the type of life that excites them, and they begin to prepare for it by taking the business course in high school. For four years they grind it out through an endless jungle of work sheets and office machines, and at the end of that time they are ready—ready to take that big step into the world of facts and figures known as business.

Latin

Latin, a dead language? Don't tell that to Mr. Kiernan, or his expostulations in the native tongue of Caesar and Cicero just might leave you trembling in your boots. "Contra opinionem omnium," Latin is very much alive, and living on the third floor of Lawrence High.

In the secrecy of room 303, the Gaelic wars have been relived to the minutest detail, and every student who has survived those countless ordeals is fit to be called a soldier. The strategies and formations of the mighty Caesar have been imparted to these scholars, making them possibly the greatest masters of small-arms warfare in the modern world. This has caused a rumor to resound throughout the school, and even now its validity is being investigated. The word is that Mr. Kiernan is training his own army of Latin students, in the hope of recapturing that ancient glory that was the Roman Empire.

"Just wait till I get you home," says Judi Hambleton.

Languages

One doesn't have to be a French can can girl, a German commandant, a Spanish Flamingo dancer, or an Italian wine maker to excel in a foreign language. This is proven by lending an ear to student's voices floating from behind doors leading to language rooms. Trying to manipulate a stubborn tongue to produce sounds resembling foreign accents, a student is often surprised at his own ability. He is aided in this endeavor by the modern machinery found in our language lab which enables the pupil to record and hear the results of satisfying drills.

As our language teachers attempt to lend color to this world of the foreign tongue, students are bound to take fresh interest in their courses and deserve much praise as they ply their lingual talents with enviable skill.

Science

In our lives, we have come to accept the existence of colds and other illnesses, of all sorts of electric gadgets, and of magnificent vehicles for transportation. However, until we reached high school and began to learn the facts behind these scientific "phenomena," we probably never cared to know about micro-organisms, electrons, or any other of the wonderful things which science has discovered at the root of everything that exists. Now we have acquired a healthy skepticism toward things we don't fully comprehend; we are no longer content to accept anything merely on the basis of outward appearances. We want to know why or how something occurs.

Perhaps our eyes were opened by something we studied in physics; perhaps chemistry is what sparked our explorations. But even if it was just a natural curiosity which prompted us to question and examine our surroundings, the fact remains that we want to know more, and it is this quest for knowledge that has been the foundation of science since the beginning of man.

Art

Original ideas, hidden thoughts, and secret masterpieces come to life in the form of intricate designs worked with tender loving care by the skillful hands of the artistically inclined. Discovering the numerous implements and various materials used by the artist, students are given a comprehensive tour of the vast arena of art by the apt guides in our art department. A student uses the newest art techniques, experiments with colors, and carves blocks for printing. He also is given the chance to indicate his artistic responses to emotional stimulus.

Considerable opportunity is given in the courses to expand oneself in the area of one's own creative talent as well as in that of precise drawing skills. Although well versed in the rules of harmonious design and color a young artist can create alone aided by a new light thrown on his own ideas. His enlightenment springs from the guidance given him in this field by the experts in the department.

Public Speaking

Terror lurks in room 100 ready to spring upon all nail-biting Seniors. Extemporaneous speeches, radio scripts, and twenty minute informative talks strike fear into the hearts of students. At first the most dreaded course, public speaking becomes one of the most anticipated. It cures trembles, clammy hands, nail biting, and laryngitis in addition to a score of other ailments springing from lack of self-confidence. Students learn to respect themselves as well as each other. Gaining a new self-assurance, they battle their dread, and emerge victorious prepared to speak coherently anywhere, anytime, on any topic.

Without the dedicated efforts of our vibrant Miss Shine possibly the course would harbor nothing but drudgery. Her enthusiasm, however, "rubs off" on students, creating unique combinations of individual personalities and speaking abilities enabling a student to captivate an audience when speaking publicly.

Library

Lawrence High has the library with the look, the look of new ideas, fun reading, and fresh color. It's the place to go to browse through books, do homework, or read. It's the spot where a student can feel at home thumbing through pages or reading one of the thought provoking posters adorning the walls.

Mrs. Palm has really increased interest in the library by "livening it up" with all the materials conducive to good study and new interest. She has made it not a congregating spot for idle students but a place to go, not only for reference and homework but also for just plain reading. This fact is plainly shown by the increase in students to be found in the colorful surroundings of the room. Anyone can see that Lawrence High has the library with soul.

Social Studies

The material taught in our social studies department, although never dull or sluggish due to the continuous stream of fast paced news events and current developments in our surroundings, has found an even brighter side to the realm of social education. The discovery of the exciting, interesting sphere of personal as well as public matters has thrown a new light on the curriculum provided. Offered such stimulating courses as psychology, anthropology, sociology, urban social problems, international relations, and humanities, students have appreciated the refreshing differences in the department.

Intrigued by the study of group behavior, human relationships, and individual reactions, students electing the new courses were given visible evidence of basic human as well as animal characteristics. Experimentation and examination led all to learn more than they had anticipated and to develop a special appreciation for the uniqueness of the individual and a better knowledge of the confusing dilemmas enmeshing civilization. These students, we hope, are well on their way to solving society's most pressing problems and bettering their environments. It can be truly said that they are well equipped, armed with the enlightenment they have found, to grapple with the world's perplexities.

Manual Arts

The great and powerful industries—automotives, electronics, publishing, and the rest—are the giant wheels which keep our nation running. However, these great wheels are not composed entirely of computerized machines and mechanical assembly lines. It takes thousands of human cogs to keep everything running, and they must all be trained extensively in their respective fields in order to insure safety and progress.

Lawrence High's Manual Arts Department is aware of the insatiable demand for more trained workers in modern industry and, in compliance with this demand, has always maintained a well-equipped shop section and a fine, highly capable staff. In manual arts classes, students learn the proper use of many machines which are commonly used in today's big industries, such as auto mechanics and printing. It takes more than knowledge to succeed in the cold industrial world; one must also have experience. Here in Lawrence High, through classrooms and work-study programs, we have tried to provide an equal measure of both.

Home Economics

Home economics must teach us how to live in our changing world, how to live and grow among families and neighbors, how to handle hopes, dreams, fears, emotions, and incomes, how to choose real values, and how to grow towards maturity and civic responsibility.

Today there are numerous variations in the basic family pattern. It is, therefore, the purpose of home economics to strengthen family life, support family values, and provide education that makes a difference in the growing ability of young people to initiate, maintain, and manage homes of their own.

If home economics were to put its major emphasis on life studies, young people would find the new home economics one of the most important of the helping professions and would flock to it both as a course of study and a career.

Guidance

When one begins to think of a high school and its many sides, there is one department which is generally forgotten among the mental images of glorious athletics and grand scholastic achievements—Guidance. Many of us, as we anxiously awaited our entrance into high school, did not even consider the existence of such a department. However, as we have gone through these four years, we have come to depend heavily upon the Guidance staff for advice and information.

We have learned many things during our short time on earth, but no matter how smart we may think we are, we are as helpless as infants when it comes to making important decisions or choosing what is best for ourselves. At these times, we turn to guidance for help. Whether it be a matter of choosing a course schedule or applying to a college, our guidance directors have the knowledge and the acumen to point us in the right direction, and they are always happy to give help to any student who may need it.

Music

We live music every day of our lives. In the rhythm of life, the beat of progress, and the notes of our feelings, we show our need for song. When a person hums or sings he shows an inner part of himself and doesn't worry about the pitch of his notes. Courses at Lawrence High try to impress students with this need for a language of the soul, music. Miss Lannigan teaches rules of punctuation, grammar, and accent, paralleling the efforts of language teachers, and imparts to students a more exact manner of expressing their soaring spirits.

For those seriously interested in pursuing careers in music, a wide range of opportunities lies before them as they familiarize themselves with the oldest language ever.

Physical Education

Five days per week a student has a chance to think, study, write, and show off his intellectual brilliance. However, there is only one day of those five on which he can also let his body loose and become a student athlete. On that one day, for forty-five minutes, he can let out all those pent-up tensions that have been bothering him all week, and indeed, if he is a normal student, he does let them out. He punishes the gym floor because he received a tardy card Monday morning; he slams the basketball against the backboard because his math teacher wouldn't give him the two points he needed for a "B"; and worst of all, he throws himself at the volleyball net, imagining it to be his estranged English teacher, who gave him a "64" on his last test.

When all of this moaning and groaning is finished, however, the student can settle down to a friendly game of basketball or volleyball, and it is at this time that one finds how enjoyable physical education can be.

Our Office Friends

A hearty thank you is officially extended to those deserving agents concerned with the more detailed aspects of running the school. These dedicated people sort, sift, and strike through almost insurmountable piles of red tape, reports, and ringing telephones in order to make our school a more efficient institution. Without the apt organization of these workers, teachers and students alike would not be able to find the right information in the right place at the right time.

Without our nurse, who would feel secure when plagued by unavoidable illness at an inopportune time of day? Without the discerning eye of Mr. Cain to distinguish the genuine from the feigned, the school would be thrown into an uproar. We salute these members of the staff and give them a well deserved pat on the back for helping everything to run a bit more smoothly, a bit more easily.

JOSÉ PEREZ

IN MEMORIAM

Many of our dearest friends are taken away from us by the cruelty of chance. In October of 1971, such was the tragic case of José Perez, an esteemed member of our class. José will be deeply missed by all those close to him and all who had the privilege of knowing him.

School Life

It's hard to describe an emotion or a way of life. Joy and love are not tangible things, and yet at times they can hit you with more force than a hurricane. This is the kind of emotion that we felt for four years here at L.H.S. Sometimes the work seemed agonizing, and we swore that we'd quit rather than go through the torture of exams; but we never did quit. We kept trying until we won, and we stayed to face new challenges. Somehow, we couldn't give up; at some point in our years here, Lawrence High became a vital part of us, and for many of us, the love of this run-down, old antique of a building became the driving force in our academic lives. And so, old friend, it is with great pleasure that we dedicate this section to you—your squeaking floor boards, leaking water pipes, and slamming doors. May they squeak, leak, and slam on forever.

French Club

Members of this club long to see the Eiffel Tower, France's Flea markets, Jean-Claude Killy and Bridget Bardot. Someday their hopeful dreams may be realized. Until that time, however, the French club tries to take the place of the City of Lights and the French Riviera. With their advisor, Mrs. Bachini, members plan trips to such places as French restaurants, and read, talk, and play Scrabble in the language. Someday these same scholars may truly journey abroad as carriers of American diplomacy and, once there, rush straight to Versailles, after a continental breakfast, of course.

Do you know the Pledge of Allegiance in French?

There's nothing like spending an afternoon reading French comic books.

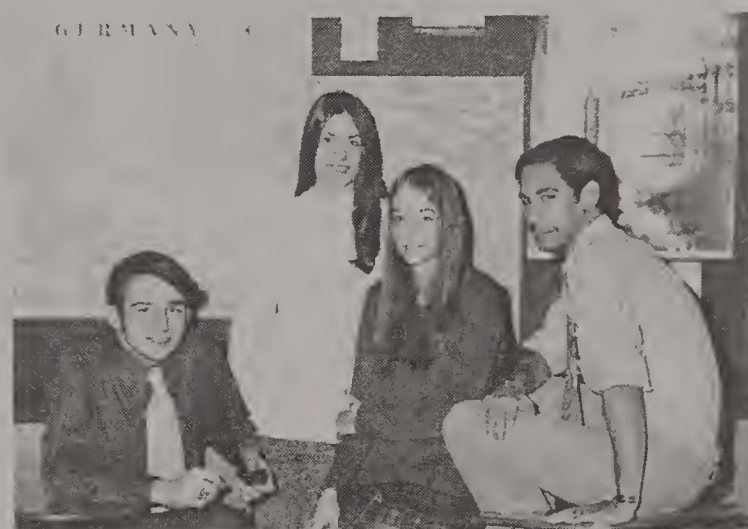

German Club Officers—Marlene Homa, Vice President, Jay Emmert, President, Katherine Severin, Secretary-Treasurer.

German Club

A great group of troopers, the German club's members have set a goal which they are determined to reach. Some have said a hearty, "Forward march!" and have begun to prepare for a trek to the land they are now studying, and Austria.

The world of the German people has been brought to them by Mrs. McComiskey, their advisor. All enjoy the books, magazines, films, and fieldtrips which give them this glimpse into German life. The existence, they find, is not at all that life as portrayed in comic books or in adventurous paperbacks.

A friendly chat in German, led by Rich Theoret.

Italian Club

Italian Club Officers—Joyce Gallo, Vice President, Gail Pollano, President, Theresa Sign, Secretary-Treasurer.

In terms of art, Italy has one of the richest heritages of any nation on earth. Great Italian artists have become famous throughout the world, and some of our greatest masterpieces were created in that little boot-shaped country in southern Europe. Therefore, it is only fitting that anyone seeking to penetrate Italian culture should start with its magnificent art, and the Italian Club, under the direction of Mrs. Kelley, did just that in its visit to Boston's Museum of Fine Arts.

In addition, the club members dined at a fine Italian restaurant, and as anyone who has ever tasted a "spicy meatball" or a pizza can tell you, "Great!"

Carol DeSantis and Rose Ardito—two towers of strength.

Spanish Club Officers—Vice President, Paula Messina; President, Blaine Gann; Secretary-Treasurer, Audrey Minsky.

"Kathy, how do you spell 'boy' in Spanish?" Joyce and Wendy ask.

Spanish Club

The Spanish Club! A fine bunch of damas y caballeros. This year, under the leadership of our new Spanish teachers, Miss Boutin and Miss Poltrino, they're finer than ever. This is one group that has more to do than sit around practicing its ah-beh-seh's. Among the activities of this year's club were a day at a bona fide Spanish restaurant, and participation in an international travel group bound for Spain. In short, its members found a way to get right into the Spanish heart, to learn what Spanish life is really all about.

Once again it's time for that swashbuckling group of arithmetical explorers—the math tutors. Each day they wade through a parade of problems, a nightmare of numbers, and most importantly, a group of fellow students who need help in math. Helping is the job of the tutors, and it's one they do well. Ask any student who has been fortunate enough to share in the benefits of the program.

Tutors are selected very carefully from a list of volunteers in the more advanced math classes. Those selected must have a good record in school and good marks in mathematics, and they must show a sincere interest in the program. Spare periods, as well as recesses, are sacrificed in the fulfillment of tutorial duties.

Perhaps the most remarkable thing about the program is the fact that the tutors get as much out of it as do the students they help. The tutors receive valuable knowledge about computers, and at the same time experience what it's like to be a teacher.

Student Congress

Comprised of virtuous, hard-working class officers and home room representatives, the Student Congress of Lawrence High has proved itself to be much more than the token legislature which many skeptics consider it at the start. Their constant diligence has helped the school to progress as rapidly as this ever-changing world, and they have shown us what great achievements can be made through peaceful legislation. At the beginning of this school year, the congress set out to attain open campus for the entire student body. This was not an easy task, for many area citizens, especially downtown merchants, were opposed to the idea of a "high noon" invasion by an army of teenagers. Nevertheless, as anyone can see, the congress succeeded admirably, and we can thank them for our being able to "get away from it all" at lunchtime.

Biology Club

Under the new direction of Mr. Liversidge and Mr. Marcoux, the Biology Club has expanded and created new enthusiasm over proposed trips and anticipated projects. In view of these new proposals, the club has virtually evolved into a different animal, illustrating Darwin's theory concerning the survival of the fittest. The club thrives and casts its eyes on future ventures as it looks wistfully back on past experiences. Through their membership, perhaps some will become enraptured by Mendelian law or will pursue careers paralleling Pasteur's or Florence Nightingale's.

Ecology Club

Ecology Club in Action.

One of our school's newest sources of pride, the Ecology Club under Miss Murphy's guidance, is not just "big talk and no action." It is brim full of hopeful ideas and the determination to carry out its plans. Whether cleaning up the school premises, listening to a speaker, or improving a public site, members are constantly on the go, never ceasing in their earnest attempts to create a better environment for their contemporaries. They remain undaunted as they undertake tremendous projects for they know they are slowly chipping away at the pollution our world faces.

Speakers' Club

"Cindy, you're wrong, I'm right," says Bev Palmer.

Students in the Speakers' Club are to be admired not only for possessing skills as orators, but also for overcoming the self-consciousness which so often trips young speakers. You'll find no clammy hands, bitten nails or hives in this club for the members have overcome those twitches of nervousness which plague others when talking publicly. With Miss Marion Shine's aid, they have broken out of shells and emerged articulate and outspoken on sometimes controversial topics. Gaining the experience they need to "sell themselves" to employers, members have discovered self-control, confidence, and poise.

Pat Couture sighs, "A woman's work is never done."

Home Economics Club

Future housewives have an excellent opportunity to enlarge upon the teachings received in the Home Economics classes by enrolling in this club. There are so many facets to home making that cannot be covered during class time that the club performs a useful function. Cooking, sewing, basic bookkeeping, and nursing are taught in the class and emphasized in the club. The girls, preparing for the future while putting their practical knowledge to good use today, are sure to be well prepared for the responsibilities they will face when they find it their turn to manage a household—and a husband.

Blue and White

What is work? In a recent survey of the members of the 1972 Blue and White staff, a number of definitions was discovered. Among them were the following:

1) Work is completing 100 layouts with a deadline two days away.

2) Work is scanning "blue sheets" for three straight hours, looking for spelling errors.

3) Work is completing a write-up for the 1972 Blue and White at 2:50 a.m. when one must get ready to go to school in less than four hours.

These definitions seem to be adequate; however, there is one lady who must check all the above work and at the same time run an English Department. Something tells us that she could come up with a definition worthy of any dictionary.

"You can take the yearbooks, but the money is mine!" says Miss Horner.

Typists lose fingernails while thumbing out copies, and artists scratch their heads while pursuing ideas for new sketches. Writers keep strong erasers nearby while composing, and Bulletin officers pace and add their own talents to produce our school magazine. The staff nurses their creation tempering humorous passages with serious writings. The publication grows, and when released is regarded not as the magazine Robert Frost once edited, but as a product of tremendous work. It is also much appreciated for its literary merit and gives needed exposure to budding young authors just beginning to show their colors.

Barbara Goulet and Kathy Daniele consult the finished product.

The Bulletin

Where the Bulletin staff goes, so must Mr. James Horne follow.

Marilyn scolds Richard, "You're supposed to be working."

The Lawrencian staff really puts it all together with a little help from its friends, friends like Mr. Hale. Members organize their own material and suffer through those "no news blues", while reporters strive to print items which are still relevant when the paper is distributed. The staff, however, succeeds and in doing so adds a polished touch to the literary achievements our school may claim.

The Lawrencian has another attraction in addition to its content. Students find no news stands lining corridors or paperboys claiming fees. The paper is freely given as are the talents of the staff that makes it all possible.

The Lawrencian decides who will be "Dear George" this week.

Library Aides

These are the students who help keep our library as organized as it is by volunteering their services to put away books and keep up the library's unique appearance. Boys are always prepared to toss out anyone who dares disturb the room's atmosphere. Thus the aides enable the library to remain orderly and conducive to study. It's plain to see that they perform a valuable service and not merely as "bouncers", for without them, Mrs. Palm would find herself swamped with additional duties and would find it difficult to handle the loads of books and streams of students that continually find their way into our library.

Alumni Secretaries

Alumni Secretaries—Christine Carabello, Beverly Firth, Marsha Keogh.

These girls fill a very important role in the scheme of things at Lawrence High School. They diligently remind alumni that our school is alive and living in Lawrence, Massachusetts. The alumni secretaries are responsible for many of the scholarships given each year because of their gentle urging for alumni donations. The girls claim no glory although they deserve much praise for the time and effort they willingly give to help their fellow students.

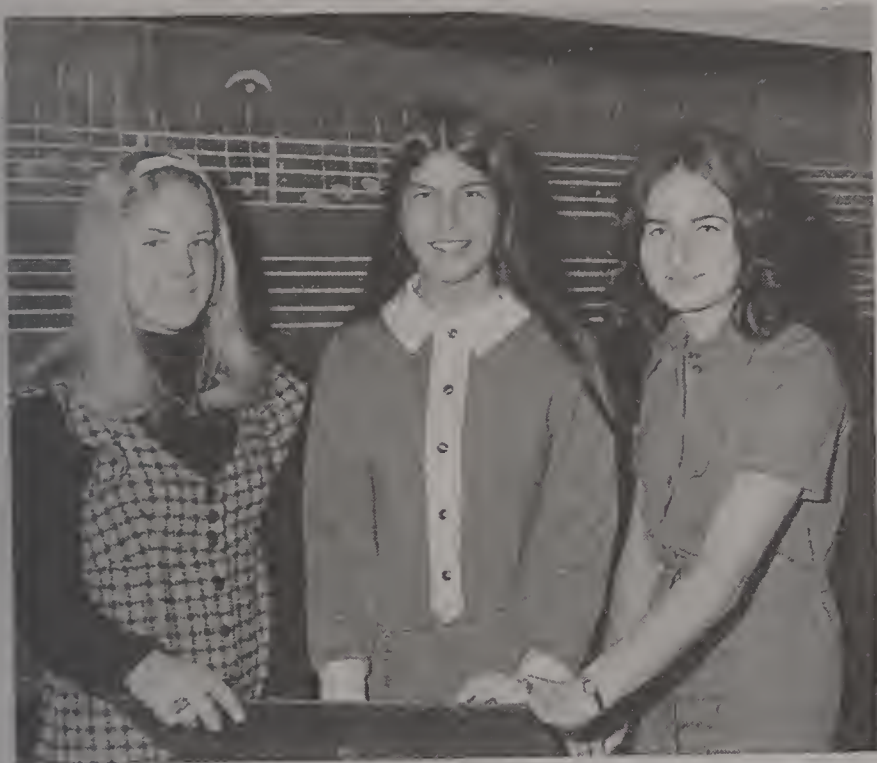

"I know I put it in here someplace," says Christine Carabello.

The happy three-some—Nancy, Cathy and John.

Lawrence High's Glee Club members have what it takes to make it in the big time, and know how to use their voices to the best advantage while crooning a melody or belting out a rollicking tune. They have discovered the technique with the aid of Miss Lanigan who adds her own efforts, picks music she knows both singers and audience will enjoy, and conducts endless practices to prepare for concerts and school functions where the club performs. Although not all the singers were born with silver vocal cords, everyone soon learns to use her inherent ability to the utmost.

Band

Despite outward appearances, the band is not the same this year as it has been in the past. Sure, the familiar blue uniforms still remain, and many of the faces are unchanged, but deep within, it is a new band. The change is one of mood and character, and we at Lawrence High feel that is definitely for the better.

In the past, the band's image has been one of somber meekness, and somehow, its music didn't really hit people with a strong punch. However, this year, through the efforts of Mr. Vogel and a bright young bunch of musicians, more people have become aware of the band's presence. With the opening of the football season, our virtuosos in blue brought a new dimension to gametime music, performing new selections with new life. It was their way of announcing that the band was here—and you'd better believe it.

The band's accompaniment in football cheers proved worth while.

Adding a dash of color and a hint of the professional to the field, both majorettes and flag squad perform routines noted for precision and difficulty. "Practice makes perfect" is their motto, and practice they do, in order to provide unique drills which combine grace and coordination with originality. Their dedication and school spirit are clearly shown when they work to entertain fans regardless of weather or field conditions. The flag squad is a new attraction to be proud of. The majorettes are an inseparable part of the season and the field would be empty without their talents.

Cheerleaders

These are the girls who live, breathe, and die with every maneuver their team makes. They suffer while others only sigh, scream while others only clap, rejoice while others only applaud. Play by play, they add their own energies to those they cheer on. They spend hours gargling, stretching muscles, and practicing. For them this is not enough. They donate oranges, decorate the clubhouse and gym, and organize, as well as participate in, school functions. Whether trying to instill spirit at a rally, freezing at a football game, or fainting after a basketball game, they give their best to produce the very best.

Pep Club and Rally

Our Pep Club symbolizes the hard work and perseverance which we have come to admire during our four years at L.H.S. While many were discouraged by the less than brilliant record of the football team, the Pep Club never suffered a letdown. When the student body seemed utterly dejected, the club members came to the rescue, lighting up the stadium with sheer spirit.

On the day of the Central rally, the morale was up higher than the trees in the common, and the team proved it that weekend by thrashing the cross-town rivals, 24-0. However, the club members and the rest of the students really gave this city something to talk about on the day before Thanksgiving. The rally held on that day is generally considered to be the best we've had in years, and had the weather been more favorable, the Lancers might have produced a short-order miracle. We owe a great debt of thanks to our Pep Club.

"Fight, fight, fight for Lawrence High . . ."

Head Coach Vince Keough on a direct line with the Man upstairs.

Football

"DISCIPLINE!" That has to be the key to the attitude of the 1971 L.H.S. football team. That was what rookie head coach Vince Keough demanded of his team, and needless to say, that is exactly what he got. The hard-driving, seemingly merciless Keough ran drills with the toughness and precision of a Marine D.I., and out of what started as a motley gang of 75 boys, he molded a fighting football squad of 40 men.

Despite a less-than-spectacular 1-8 record, hopes are high for a really good team next year. Many of the mistakes of this year's team can be attributed to sheer inexperience, for there were only nine seniors on the entire squad. However, by playing the underclassmen, Coach Keough has eliminated inexperience as a factor in next year's team, and come September, he will be greeted by at least 30 "wise old veterans". What more could any coach want?

Soccer

For years, soccer has been one of the greatest spectator sports in the entire world, attracting a tremendous following both overseas and in Latin America. In fact, it is literally the professional football of many foreign countries, and its fans are no less ardent in admiring their heroes than we are in worshipping our Jim Plunketts and Bubba Smiths. Despite its world-wide popularity, however, soccer was comparatively unknown in this country until recently, when it began to receive more publicity in our newspapers and on our television broadcasts. Now things are beginning to change; Americans are finally beginning to realize the great competition level of the game and the superior physical conditioning of the athletes involved.

Lawrence High School, in its constant endeavor to keep in step with the changing times, this year established its own soccer team. The turnout for the squad was surprisingly large, indicating a strong interest in the game in this area. Despite the lack of a formal schedule, the team did manage to have some scrimmages with area teams, and the Lancers seemed remarkably capable of holding their own on the playing field. Things look hopeful for this new dimension in L.H.S. athletics.

Coach Fitzgerald gives some friendly advice.

Wrestling

This year, the Lancer wrestling team came up with the greatest season in the history of wrestling at Lawrence High. Working with a starting team of only five seniors and seven underclassmen, Coach Bob Fitzgerald was like a demon as he drove his men through the campaign with fourteen victories and only one defeat—a heartbreaking 33-27 decision to Lowell. Throughout the season, the spirit of the team was high, as it demonstrated by upsetting the powerful Chelmsford Lions in a tense match, 29-20. In addition to all their regular season triumphs, the mighty Lancers took first place in a quadrangular tournament at Hamilton-Wenham, making the year complete.

Boys' Basketball

"They said it couldn't be done." Regardless of what they said, the 1971-72 Lancer basketball squad did it. After more than fifty straight losses extending over a period of three dismal years, our boys came back to win six games under new head coach John Kelleher, and to qualify for competition in the Bay State tournament. Even to the most loyal Lancer basketball fans, it seemed that the day of reckoning would never come, but at last it has, and the spirit that has been revived throughout the entire school is fantastic, to say the very least. Was it the Lancer's new uniforms that did the trick? We don't think so, but those uniforms are significant in one way. They reflect the new attitude sweeping L.H.S.—the new pride that we can't help feeling in a team that has the courage to come back and play the way our Lancers have.

Hockey

Hard paced and action packed, a hockey game is one of the most exciting sports competitions in the world, and judging by the increasing numbers of spectators present at our games, the sport's popularity is increasing. Unbelievable as it may seem, some people have been known to sacrifice their favorite TV shows, even an occasional Bruins game, in order to make that trek to the Frost Arena and be "where the action is." What's more, this interest is held not only by the boys, but also by members of the gentle sex, who give our Lancer icemen a pretty warm reception.

Although the Lancers showed dogged determination this year, they met some stiff competition and were checked to only two wins. However, with a few good men returning, hopes are high for a more impressive showing next year.

Indoor Track

Still another example of the "new" revolution which took place in Lawrence High this year was the Lancer indoor track team. When the season began, newly elected head coach Bob Welch found that he was not alone in the ranks of the inexperienced; most of his team was made up of underclassmen with relatively little track "know-how". However, both coach and team worked courageously, and to the surprise of just about everyone, the Lancers fared pretty well in competition. Their record of 2 wins, 4 losses, and 1 tie afforded them a fifth position in the standings out of the eight teams in the league, and in the league meet, our boys took fourth place. Coach Welch expects big things of next year's team, as the work of the younger boys this year was indeed praiseworthy.

Bernie O'Rourke takes the baton from Len Eddy in the relay.

John Connors and Dave Robinson are off and running.

Len Eddy always reaches for new heights in the high jump.

Mark Harem edges out teammate Bob Ricardo.

Dave Teggart leads the pack.

A word of advice from the head coach.

Dave Robinson—up and over?

Girls' Basketball

These girls cut sharp figures on the court and are one development in women's lib that can honestly be appreciated. The girls have proven their worth and contributed greatly to the competitive spirit at L.H.S. Retaining their femininity while forging their way to consistent victories, they have impressed all.

On their roster of accomplishments they may list an impressive third place won in the Billerica Invitational Tournament. Well led by Mrs. Reynolds and Miss McCale, they are suited in the best uniforms to be found, and endowed with spirit, will, and talent enough to fell their ranks with honor.

Co-captains Ann Ginchereau and Kathy Kenney meet to plan the game strategy.

1971-1972 Girls' Varsity Basketball Team

Kneeling—Debbie Andreoli, Ann Ginchereau, Co-Capt., Kathy Kenney, Co-Capt., Donna Biasiucci, Diane Ouelette. Standing—Asst. Manager Frieda Saffie, Patty Morency, Kathy Severin, Kim Wright, Michele Erickson, Manager Pauline Abate.

1971-1972 Girls' J.V. Basketball Team

Kneeling—Josie Clemente, Daisy Clemente, Co-Capt. Mary Ann Ramey, Co-Capt. Sheryl Wright, Celeste Gingrass. Second row—Pam Routhier, Erin Clifton, Sandra Bald, Debbie Petzold, Linda Dutton, Sue Trepanier. Third row—Cheryl Brooks, Ramona Schiffer, Donna Trebino, Reina Veilleux, Wendy Lee.

Hey, Michele, the ball's over there!

Donna and Debbie show their spirit.

Everyone waits anxiously for the game to start.

Diane Ouellette and Patty Morency bring the ball down the court.

Kathy Kenney and Donna Biasiucci jump for the rebound.

Kathy Severin reaches for new heights

Coach Sallie Reynolds points out the way to victory.

Faculty Basketball Game

The Women. . . .

. . . The Men

The women greet the men

The men greet the women!

Jump Ball

"Please, don't squeeze the wrestling coach!"

"Nothing to it!"

"Wrong game, Mr. Reusch!"

"It's Grrreat!"

"Shake," says Al Matthews.

Mustn't touch!

The Cheerleaders

The men take a break to plan their strategy.

For the men. . . .

When Lipton blows the whistle.

. . . and for the women.

Mrs. Reynolds, you wouldn't dare.

Oh yes, you would!

"Hey ref, he's got it!"

"This is what I call cheating," says Carl Knightly.

Alas, all good things must come to an end,

as they did for Miss McCarthy.

The game was enjoyed by many . . .

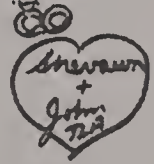

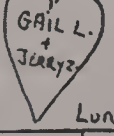

Students

And teachers alike.

You're about to take a giant step forward into your future. We think we can make it the bright one you want it to be at New England Telephone. With a job that's every bit as big as your ambition. You see, we need people. With all kinds of talents. And especially, people who really want to get going with their future. And want to be rewarded with automatic raises. Your High School diploma is all the experience you need. If you want a job and a future that's tailored to your talent... along with unusually generous fringe benefits, stop in and see your guidance counselor. Ask when and where you can apply for an interview with the people who want to make your future as happy as you want it to be.

An ounce of prevention.

Pollution.

You can't fight it until you find it.

Sometimes it's as easy as analyzing a beaker of water. Other times a complete ecological study is required.

Right now, on rivers and lakes, along coastlines, Raytheon scientists are using a variety of techniques to determine precisely where pollution exists, or will exist.

Once it's found, automatic monitoring systems and equipment from Raytheon provide continual analysis of water quality.

Helping people get the drop on water pollution is just one of the ways Raytheon technology is working for better living today.

Class Day Rolls Around Again

"But let's think back now with a little smile . . ." says Joyce Gallo to her classmates.

A TOAST TO THE FACULTY

*Through four years we've put up with them
Though 'twas not always fun,
But now that we are leaving them
We all feel kind of glum.*

*The AWOL's and the make-up slips,
The passes and the rest,
How on earth did they find the time
To make out all those tests!*

*Who could forget those tough exams
They shocked us with each day,
And what about that "B" you got
That should have been an "A"!!*

*But let's think back now with a smile
And let us not feel blue,
For we've the pleasure of knowing
What others must go through*

*And though our world has just begun,
Our paths now clear to see,
We owe it all to those who cared
Our friends The faculty!!!*

Mr. Walsh congratulates Cynthia Mothon on her award.

Sandra Zappala reads the class will with a little help from her friends, Kurt Simmers, John Conners, and Wendy Duxbury.

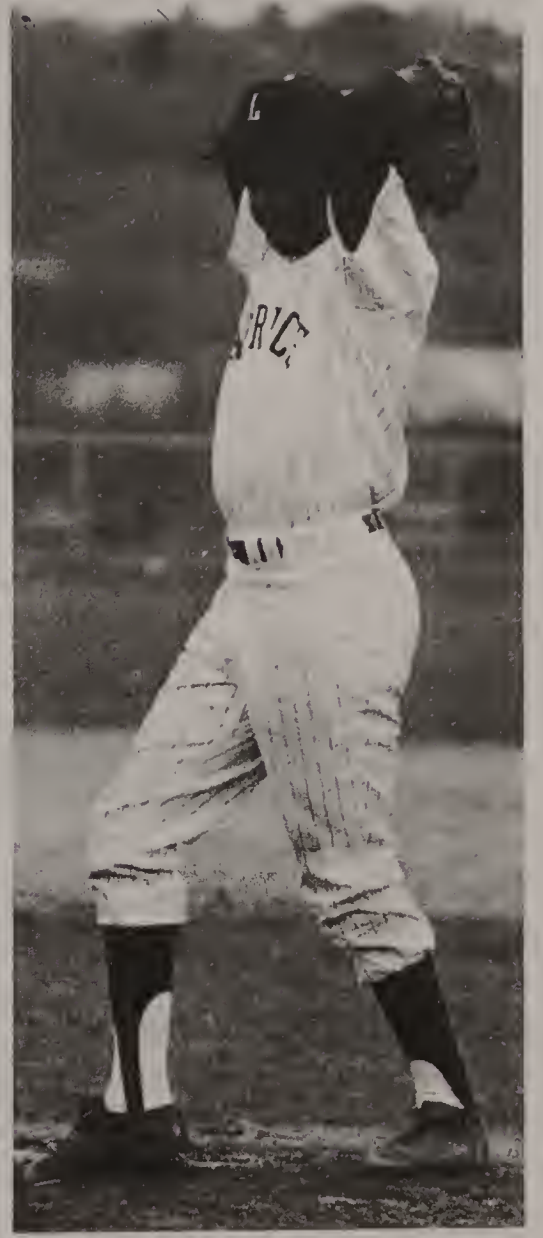

Baseball, We Played

3 year veteran Al Houle played several positions well.

Paul Jaskot prepares to bat clean-up.

Dave Robinson, a promising sophomore, will return next year.

Don Randolph never sits down on the job.

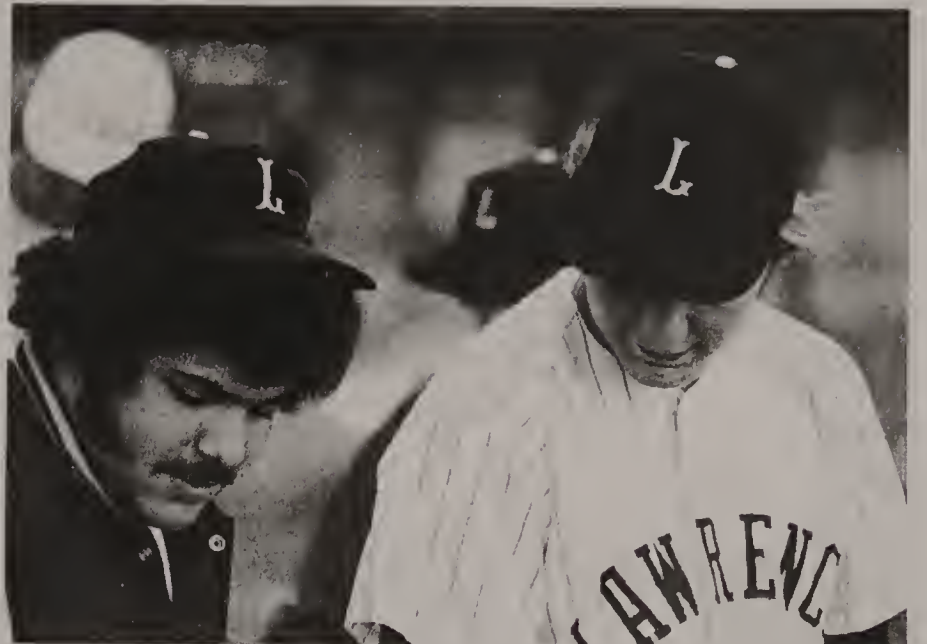

Coach Lefebre studies the situation.

Between Showers

MVP, Neil Perocchi, led the team in hitting.

Team's leading pinch hitter, Tony Campagna, offers some advice.

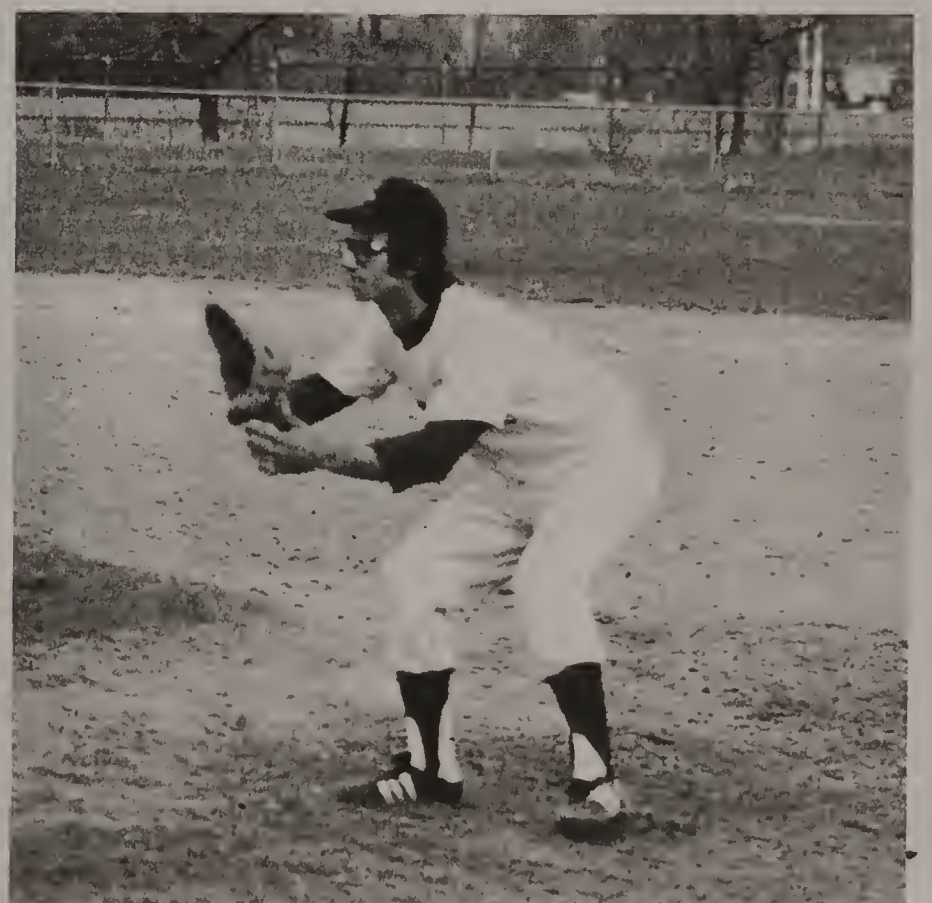

Dave Rozumek was one of the team's strongest hitters.

Seniors give underclassmen needed advice.

Bob Kfoury displays his catching technique.

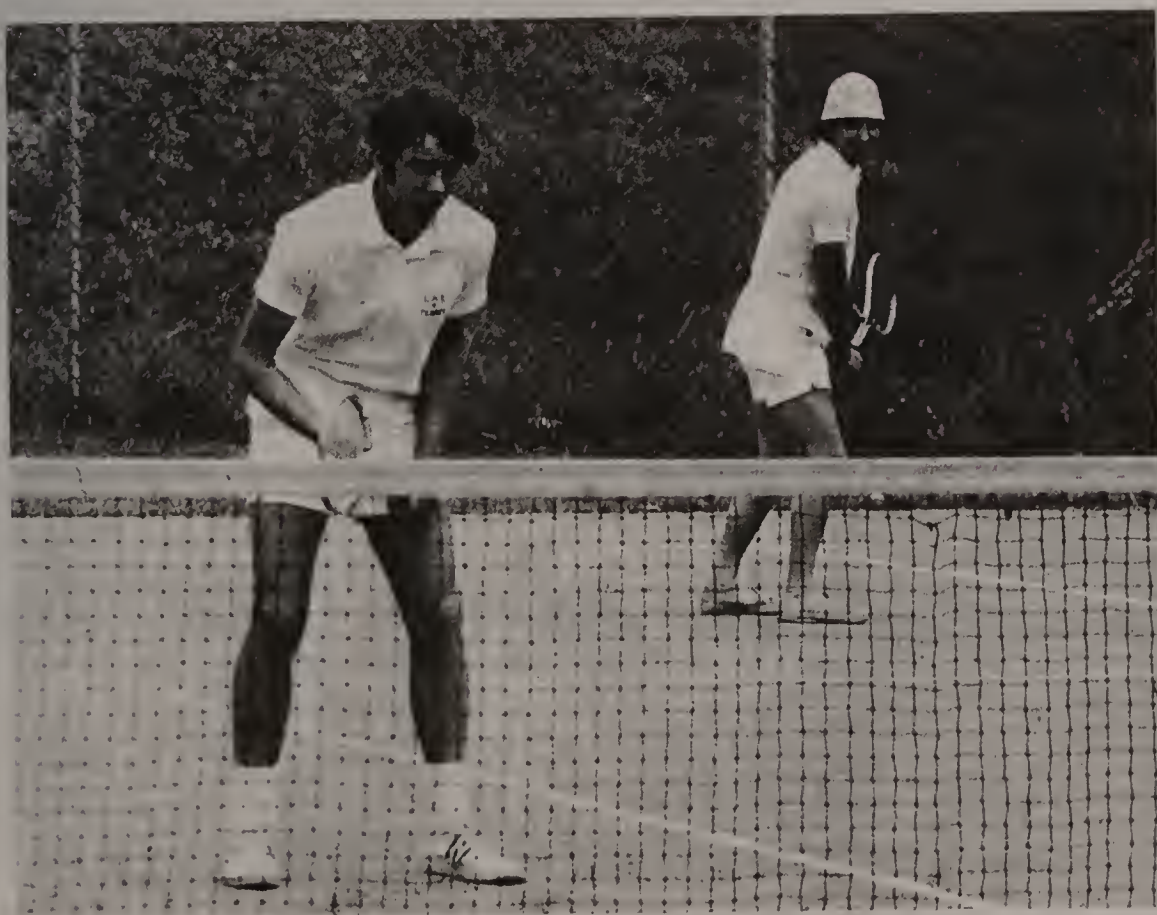

Al Houle gets into position.

Tennis

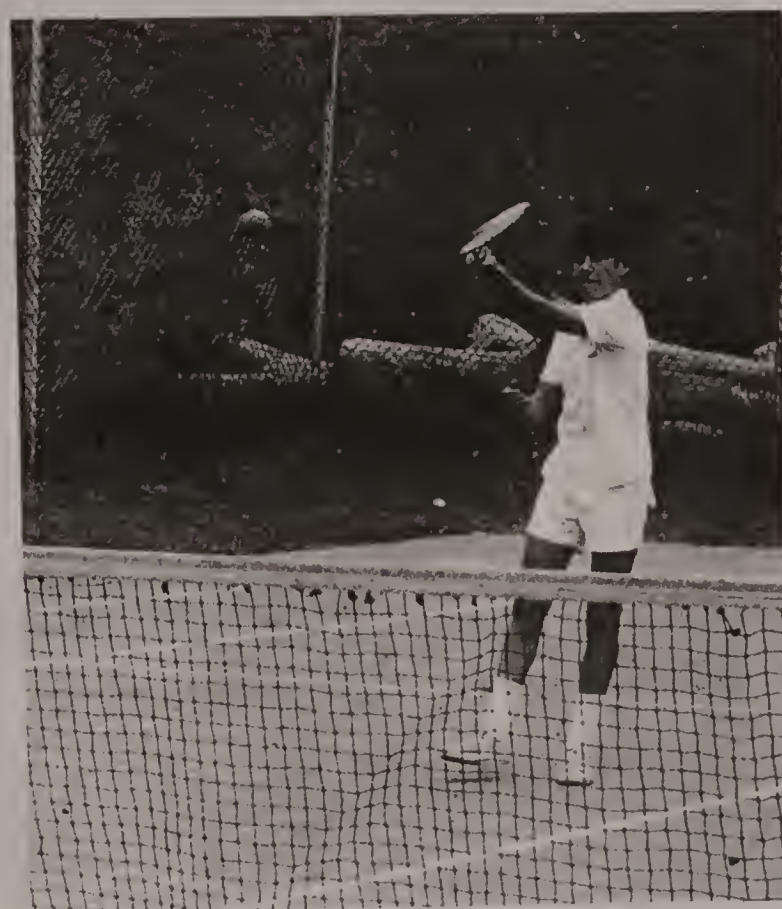

1971-1972 Lawrence Tennis Team

LHS Prom - Rolling Green

A quiet moment for John and Laurie.

Dancing Greek style.

Can you imagine what John is up to?

If Martha Arboleda and her escort are looking for a table, what is Kurt doing?

Time out for a Coke.

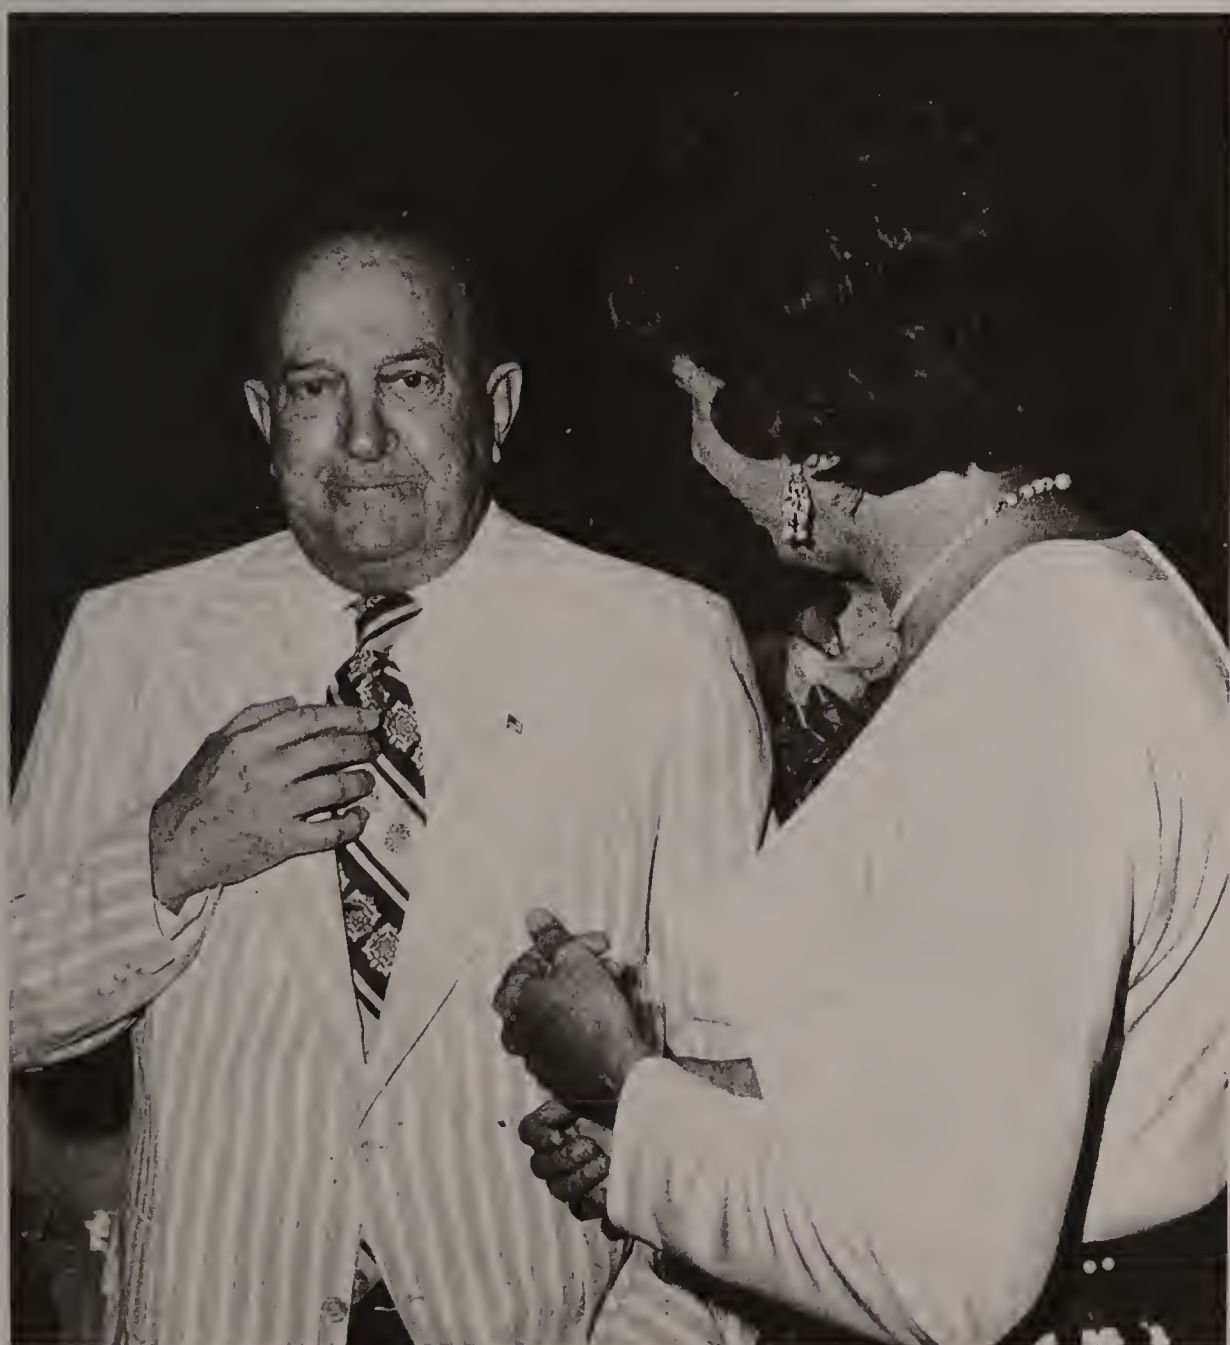

Motor Inn - May 26, 1972

Marilyn and her boyfriend sit this one out.

Elaine and her escort are enjoying themselves.

Miss Horner consults with the boss.

Nothing like a little fresh air.

Mr. Compagnone and his group provided the music.

Frank Ruggieri and Debbie Chalifoux watch the proceedings.

Judi Cummings, Joyce DiGloria, Joanne Mercier, Jeannie Kenyon and their escorts had a wonderful time.

"Well, Bobbi," says Steve, "that about wraps it up."

New dance, Lani?

Dennis Martin and Maureen Medlock smiled all night.

Girls' night out.

Elaine just loved her flowers.

The Grand March — the class officers led and the seniors followed.

June 7, 1977

Graduation Day

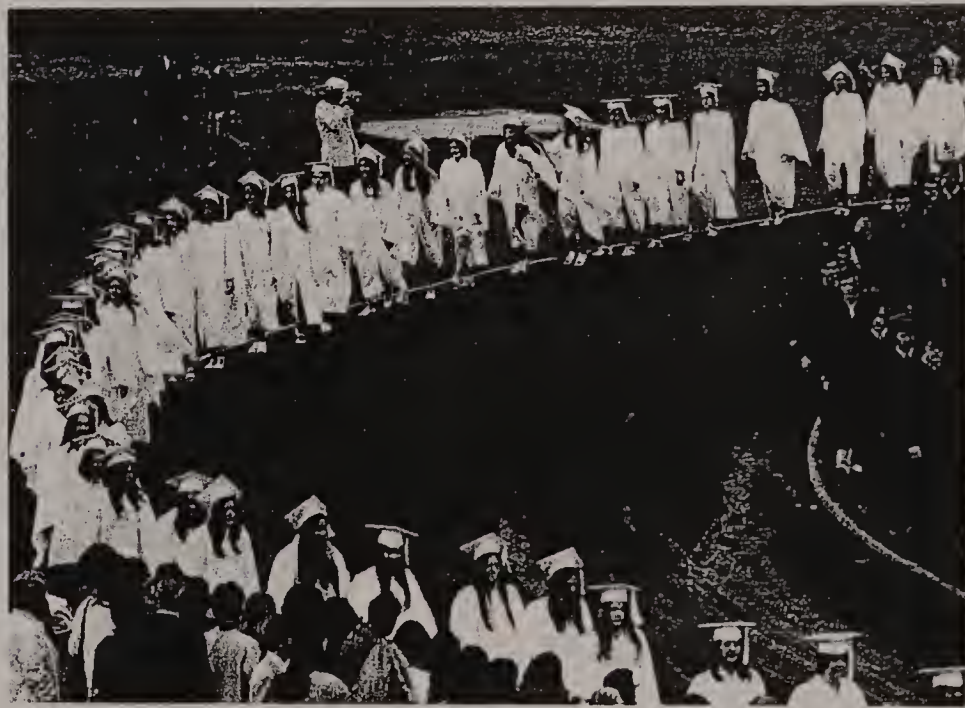

The graduates prepare for the final march . . .

. . . and finally, it has begun.

It's what's up front that counts!

The happy procession of graduates?

"Today we follow, Tomorrow we lead."

June 7, 1972

Everyone was proud of our valedictorian, John Lahoud . . .

. . . and our salutatorian, Audrey Morse.

The consummation of 4 years of diligence.

The rewards are many

" . . . On scholastic and athletic battlegrounds . . . "

"... May our constant effort, work well done, bring honor to thy name ..."

Alas, all good things must come to an end!

Some of us laughed

Others were solemn

But we all shed some tears of goodbye to two old friends—
Lawrence High and us.

At The Teacher's Tea, We Bid Farewell To Three Devoted Ladies

A toast to three lovely ladies whom Lawrence High will deeply miss.

"Oh! Does this smell good," remarks Miss Langan.

Miss Toye returns!
